RAILROAD STRIKE.

"Harry Hukes," our lively and versatile correspondent at Monterey, states a mighty big truth in his news items this week when he says: "Combinations of labor unions are as pernicious and detrimental to the spirit of our government as organized capital." "Harry" might have gone farther and said: When any man refuses to submit his case to arbitration that minute he admits that his demands are unfair and that he is seeking to secure by force what he has no hope of securing through right and justice.

That not one of the disgruntled trainmen in a hundred can earn half what he is now receiving, by engaging in any other calling.

That the railroads are coming to see that it is a matter of impossibility to deal with so uneducated an aggregation as the several trainmen's unions and that in the near future the roads will require a certain educational qualification from all prospective employees.

That it is manifestly unfair that four hundred thousand trainmen shall control one hundred millions of people in an unjust cause.

That the logic of their contention, that it will only require a very slight increase in freight rates to meet the extra demand they are making, is a false one and if carried to an ultimate end would paralyze every business in the country with an excessive wage burden.

That the only settlement that is permanent is one that is based on justice and right to all concerned, and the enactment of the eight-hour-day law is not fair and does not settle the question to stay.

Mr. Average Citizen, do you know what yielding to the demands of the trainmen means? Well, it means this: Cutting down the time for the trainmen from ten to eight hours means an added expense to the railroads of one hundred millions of dollars an every one knows that the people must pay this increase. We have in this country one hundred million people, which means an average increase of one dollar to each person in the country in order that only four hundred thousand trainmen may work many hours less than you do and receive from two to four times as much pay. If you have a family of six how do you relish the idea of paying out of your hard earned wages six dollars a year to a man who works not more than two-thirds as long as you do and gets two to four times as much pay?

If you like that stand for it and support it. If you do not like it refuse to support it or the people who made such a condition possible.

In the recent primary election, in Missouri, for selecting a candidate for United States Senator, the democrat received only 2,900 more votes than the republican in the whole state.

In the past it has been common for Missouri to give 30,000 to 40,000 majority for the democratic ticket. The last primary shows two things very clearly: First, that the republican party is very harmonious and working together in one solid phalanx. That the prospects for electing a republican to the United States senate are very good, for any person can easily see that to overcome a majority of less than 3,000 should be no large task in a state that casts over 385,000 votes.

The outcome of the November election in Missouri will be watched with

SAVES DAUGHTER

Advice of Mother no Doubt Prevents Daughter's Untimely End.

Ready, Ky.—"I was not able to do anything for nearly six months," writes Mrs. Laura Bratcher, of this place, "and was down in bed for three months."

I cannot tell you how I suffered with my head, and with nervousness and womanly troubles.

Our family doctor told my husband he could not do me any good, and he had to give it up. We tried another doctor, but he did not help me.

At last, my mother advised me to take Cardui, the woman's tonic. I thought it was no use for I was nearly dead and nothing seemed to do me any good. But I took eleven bottles, and now I am able to do all of my work and my own washing.

I think Cardui is the best medicine in the world. My weight has increased, and I look the picture of health.

If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, get a bottle of Cardui today. Delay is dangerous. We know it will help you, for it has helped so many thousands of other weak women in the past 50 years.

much interest.

When Roosevelt carried Missouri for president some democrats in the southern part of the state petitioned the state authorities to allow certain counties to be annexed to Arkansas on the grounds that Missouri had disgraced itself as a state by giving a republican majority for president. They might have the chance to make a similar petition again this fall.

No person claims that foreign countries grow very much elated or rejoice to any great extent over any policy that brings great prosperity to the United States, but they very naturally do rejoice when this government adopts any policy that is favorable to them.

Every reading person knows that when the democrats passed the present tariff measure that European countries and Canada praised it as being a very wise measure. Why did they favor it?

It was claimed that this same democratic tariff measure would make cheaper beef by letting Canadian beef come into this country free. Has any one seen beef prices come down? Does not every reading person know that Canada simply increased the price of her beef to the extent of the tariff reduction and put that difference down in her pocket? Yet in the face of such facts some people claim that the consumer pays the tariff.

What is true of the Canadian beef question is true of every other commodity that comes into this country free of tariff or through a very low tariff.

A customs union between Great Britain and her allies is in process of formation. Its purpose will be to hold the markets of England, France and Russia—with their dependencies—for the allied producers and to invade the markets of the world in competition with Germany.

It is not easy to see where the United States will get off under a scheme of this kind.

Our markets are the best in the world. Despite the war, we are already witnessing a constantly increasing flood of foreign goods at our custom houses—and after the war this flood will mount to irresistible proportions if we are not defended by the dykes of a protective tariff.

In this issue appears the resolution passed by the County Board of Education stating that they would enforce the compulsory school attendance law. Those who have been ignoring or violating it by allowing their children between the ages of six and fourteen to remain out of school are liable to be called upon to pay a considerable fine unless they send their children to school and keep within the law.

The law is good and wise one and we have no doubt that the school board intends to enforce it. Every person knows how to avoid trouble along this line.

The lively response which Hughes' tariff speeches awaken, in every community where he has touched upon that topic, indicates that the voters are very much interested in the one issue upon which there is a clear and unmistakable line of cleavage in policy and doctrine between the Republicans and the Democrats.

Wonder if President Wilson thinks he has made any votes by the way he has managed the threatened railroad strike? He seems to have satisfied the larger part of four hundred thousand trainmen and dissatisfied the larger part of one hundred million people.

"The Little Game Cock of West Tennessee," didn't hop up, flop his wings and give a crow of the "dare-you-to-face-me" kind. He simply slipped away under the garments of the state committee and said real softly: "They won't let me."

The next time a Democratic spell-binder comes your way ask him why it is that he blames the European war for the high cost of living and refuses to credit the European war for the gigantic increase in our export trade.

Four hundred thousand licked one hundred million and congress "to boot."

Creston

Mrs. Margaret Turner, wife of Hedley Turner, passed away Sept. 2, 1916, being 80 years and 4 days old. She had been with her daughter, Mrs. Bob Walker, at Monterey, for some months prior to her death. She had been a citizen of our settlement almost all her life. She leaves six children, 3 boys and 3 girls, and a host of grandchildren to mourn her loss. Grandma Turner professed faith in Christ when a small girl and joined the Free Will Baptist church at Bakers Cross Roads, where she lived a faithful constant christian. Her sweet and kindly disposition won for her many friends. Possibly no one in the community deserves greater respect. Her kindness and help to the sick and suffering will be missed by the community, while the bereaved ones have lost a faithful mother and the church a loyal member. The remains were interred at the Turner burial ground near Creston. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. L. F. Smith, assisted by J. W. Linkous. The bereaved ones have the sympathy of the entire community.

Mrs. Mary Gallagher left Thursday for her home in St. Louis, Mo., after a month's visit with her sister, Mrs. A. L. Taber.

Rev. L. F. Smith and son Jay, of Pleasant Hill, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Duncan Sunday night.

Rev. Linkous has been very sick this week.

Miss Mary Spencer was home Saturday and Sunday from her school.

Sept. 4. Violet.

EAST TENNESSEE FARM NEWS

Prepared Exclusively for the Chronicle by Division of Extension, College of Agriculture, University of Tennessee, Knoxville.

To cover Tennessee with the legumes is the desire of all interested in the Legume Campaign and that means farmers and business men, gardeners and bankers, city men and country dwellers, those who own acres and those who own only a small lot.

What Tennessee needs is a system of cropping that will utilize the heat and moisture that our land receives in winter. Much heat and moisture are present during the winter when acres of land are idle. We must get our soils busy. We must have as many acres of winter crops as summer crops to save our soils and ourselves. We must take advantage of this heat and moisture which comes in the winter season and which will ruin our soils if we let them lie idle. We must use the heat and moisture to grow crops. Growing crops protect the soil and pay us dividends.

HITTING TYPHOID HARD.

The congested cities are vaccinating against typhoid fever. This is well, but if any city does not take the precautions which are possible for any one of us that city will not prevent the spread of the dread disease.

Typhoid fever spreads from one person to another through the excreta from the body. The germs may get into the milk or into the water, or into some other food. To keep germs out of foods is the task of the nurse, whose duty is an important one.

The nurse must not handle any of the cooking utensils or dishes that the family use. She must keep a special wash pan for her own use. A good solution for her to keep in the pan with which to wash is one quart of water, one ounce of glycerine, one and one-half teaspoon carbolic acid (95 per cent). Mix well the glycerine and the carbolic acid. Pour in the one quart of water boiling hot. Let cool and you have a preparation that will keep the hands smooth and clean. First always wash in soap and water. Then rinse in the solution. Remember to do this every time you handle the patient, or bedding. The nurse is careful not to put her hands about her mouth at any time. The solution here given can be made fresh every day and can be kept in a convenient place.

You cannot be too careful in keeping away from others the disease over which you have care.

NOW IS FAIR TIME.

Farm exhibits at the fair, whether it be a county fair or a community gathering, create the most interest if they really represent what the county or the community is doing.

Farm exhibits will show what one man is doing with sheep or with cattle. It is an advertisement for his products and it shows him what his neighbor does better than he does, or vice versa.

Farm exhibits attract the city man and his family for they are interested in food. They help make the fair a success.

Farm exhibits are made only in progressive communities. It requires thought and skill to present the products of the farm in an attractive way. Only progressive people will go to the trouble.

Farm exhibits make the fair. Without them there, can be no fair; there may be a show of some kind but there can be no fair.

COULD NOT DO HER COOKING.

Mrs. F. E. Hartmeister, Tea, Mo., writes: "I was affected with kidney trouble for two years. I got so bad this summer I could hardly do my cooking. I got Foley Kidney Pills and I feel like a new person." Too many women neglect symptoms of kidney derangement, weak back, swollen ankles and joints, aches, pains and rheumatism. For sale by Reed & Burnett.
